20120807 WOODLAND WATER TREATMENT PLANT RECEIVES STATE AWARD

The City of Woodland Water Treatment Plant received an award in July for meeting three consecutive years of water quality treatment levels that exceed regulatory requirements as part of the Washington State Office of Drinking Water Treatment Optimization Program. The Woodland Water Treatment Plant is one of only nine plants across the state to receive an award this year. Public Works Director Bart Stepp attributes the award to, "The skills and hard work of Plant Operator Robert Choate and the rest of the Public Works Staff."
